An Old Virginia Hero

VIRGINIA AFTER THE WAR—GENERAL LEE AND NORTHERN POLITICIANS

[Correspondence Chicago Tribune]

WASHINGTON, July 21

A TALK WITH PORTE CRAYON.

Last Sunday I ran up to Berkely Springs to see the most intelligent South in many of my acquaintance. The Union General and Aide de Camp David Hunter Strother cousin of General David Hunter but better known by his nom de plume of Porte Crayon. He is fifty years of age a singular looking man with a Polish face and straggling white beard yet with two children or under as the youngest but a few months old. He has been a scintillating correspondent for the well-manned and weaponed out in the war and his eyes have suffered by its wearing up the shining surface of brushwood that has given up all work but writing and sketching upon paper.

The history of this man is in many senses singular. He belongs to one of the first and most cultivated families of Virginia. His mother was a Hunter of Martinsburg, his father a Colonel of the old army of the United States. Around family marriage and fellowship the leading rebels of Virginia grew up—the Masons, Randolphs, Lees, Custises, Pendletons. Old Colonel Strother repairing to Berkeley Springs for his health erected there one of the largest hotels in America. Prior to the time the springs were as I for a sort of invalid camp meeting, every year invalids repairing there with covered wagons, tents or sheltered by bush huts. In this way Lord Fairfax, Washington, Charles Carroll and most of the Revolutionary people drank and bathed in the waters and here Mrs. Washington and the Baroness de Riedesel occupied adjoining huts while Yorktown surrendered. Old Colonel Strother, a small, imperial veteran, had been held by his personal influence the county of Morgan to the Union. He was just eighty years old his wife included across the North Mountain into the valley of Virginia, and he became a prisoner to the rebels that they arrested him and dragged him off to Winchester. His own cousin Angus McDonald, put him in a prison pen exposed to the rain and vapors of the night, but there the old soldier harranged the rebel volunteers until they became uneasy, like their officers and the latter brought him to trial on a charge of treason. Colonel Strother's friends were very solicitous for his safety and stirred themselves with rebel connivance to get together the most favorable testimony in his defence.

The witnesses, one after another deposed that they knew Colonel Strother very well that he was a good Virginian a charitable man no Abolitionist, etc.

The old man, disdaining to be so represented, though at the price of his safety as seen in court and cried.

"You know nothing of my sentiments sir if you wish to know (to the Judge) I will give them to you signed with my name and sealed with my seal. How dare you arraign a good citizen of the United States before this mob tribunal? I call this treason! I call you a traitor! And if I had the power I would hang you on the public gallows."

The court took a speedy way of getting rid of this old trooper, and he was permitted to go home. But there was Stonewall Jackson plundering his house there the young men whom he had helped to christen and taught to shoot the rifle taunting their treason. Old Colonel Strother laid down in shame and died. His daughter put his body in a hearse and followed it alone, with a single carriage across the mountains to Martinsburg, where she buried him with his fathers.

Meantime, Porte Crayon was in the Union lines Aide-de-Camp to McClellan to Banks, to Hunter. He guided the army of the Union to Antietam. His services cover all the Atlantic and Gulf slope from Lake Pontchartrain to the Susquehanna. After the war he was Secretary to Governor Pierpont of Virginia. Then he came to the village of Bath to rest and pursue in pleasant competence his studies and drawings.

It was there that I found him, happier than he has ever been, but done with active life. The hotel is still intact and hospitably kept by Porte Crayon's brother in law. It is still the favorite resort for New Orleans, Baltimore and Washington people and many Northern men are building cottages there.

VIRGINIA SCENES.

I found Porte Crayon in his library. It is early oil paintings surrounding the room. All scattered among his books were sketches of the John Brown raid, the most valuable reminiscences extant of that border warfare. His library is perhaps the most perfect in Virginia, in its colonial and local State collections. He is the most conscientious designer in the country not so exquisite perhaps as Darley but Darley long ago resigned individualism for commerce and he has made a fortune. Porte Crayon sharper and better sketches have never been published. They are stamped with native character. The Mountaineer over the Chesapeake shipper the negro patriarch imbued with human suggestion from the years to the hands and never exaggerated often humorous and always involving some natural or domestic sentiment. When I had opportunity I asked Strother the state of feeling in Virginia.

"Sullenness and ruin," he said. "The old vices of pride and idleness that John Smith witnessed of the earliest Virginians exist to the high the whole community suggested. I have never seen poverty. The sentiment of mind I find strong as ever. The young men and the grandparents. They will not crowd hotels, borrow money to live by with no expectation of ever paying it back, but do not work. As I am writing, fellows have been to see me seeking advice. I tell them to quit the State to go North or West. They are able bodied, but the atmosphere where work is pride they will turn it away. It is as unhealthy. But the mind is as high as here. It is not alone the resentment against work, it is the atmosphere. I witness the feeling of feudalism at war with the personal degradation of industry despising trade fit only for politicians and fighting."

It is no delusion, continued Porte Crayon, that the feudal spirit and mode of life perpetuated in Virginia by slavery is a purer marked than you will find anywhere in Europe. Bulwer would have found models here for the last of the Barons. The feudal spirit is averse to the life of cities. So in Virginia. She has no great city in the Chesapeake or on the Ohio. Her small towns are settled by Northern mechanics or their shopkeepers. The feudal spirit has no respect for law. To this day in Virginia it is legal to do to law. A man in a civil period will shoot his antagonist on the instant, and go scot free. The combat but at least was the most difficult spirit. These people will not submit to the most upright President unless forcibly. The society and politics are the profession patent and intelligent to me.

The ruin of cities in branching, the destruction of their ... People who need depart ... but I mean ... held by his personal influence the county of Morgan to the Union. He was just eighty years old his wife included across the North Mountain into the valley of Virginia, and he became a prisoner to the rebels that they arrested him and dragged him off to Winchester. His own cousin Angus McDonald, put him in a prison pen exposed to the rain and vapors of the night, but there the old soldier harranged the rebel volunteers until they became uneasy, like their officers and the latter brought him to trial on a charge of treason. When I had opportunity I asked Strother the state of feeling in Virginia.

"Sullenness and ruin," he said. "The old vices of pride and idleness that John Smith witnessed of the earliest Virginians exist to the high the whole community suggested. I have never seen poverty. The sentiment of mind I find strong as ever. The young men and the grandparents. They will not crowd hotels, borrow money to live by with no expectation of ever paying it back, but do not work. As I am writing, fellows have been to see me seeking advice. I tell them to quit the State to go North or West. They are able bodied, but the atmosphere where work is pride they will turn it away. It is as unhealthy. But the mind is as high as here. It is not alone the resentment against work, it is the atmosphere. I witness the feeling of feudalism at war with the personal degradation of industry despising trade fit only for politicians and fighting."

It is no delusion, continued Porte Crayon, that the feudal spirit and mode of life perpetuated in Virginia by slavery is a purer marked than you will find anywhere in Europe. Bulwer would have found models here for the last of the Barons. The feudal spirit is averse to the life of cities. So in Virginia. She has no great city in the Chesapeake or on the Ohio. Her small towns are settled by Northern mechanics or their shopkeepers. The feudal spirit has no respect for law. To this day in Virginia it is legal to do to law. A man in a civil period will shoot his antagonist on the instant, and go scot free. The combat but at least was the most difficult spirit. These people will not submit to the most upright President unless forcibly. The society and politics are the profession patent and intelligent to me.

The ruin of cities in branching, the destruction of their ... People who need depart ... but I mean ... held by his personal influence the county of Morgan to the Union. He was just eighty years old his wife included across the North Mountain into the valley of Virginia, and he became a prisoner to the rebels that they arrested him and dragged him off to Winchester. His own cousin Angus McDonald, put him in a prison pen exposed to the rain and vapors of the night, but there the old soldier harranged the rebel volunteers until they became uneasy, like their officers and the latter brought him to trial on a charge of treason. Colonel Strother's friends were very solicitous for his safety and stirred themselves with rebel connivance to get together the most favorable testimony in his defence.

The witnesses, one after another deposed that they knew Colonel Strother very well that he was a good Virginian a charitable man no Abolitionist, etc.

The old man, disdaining to be so represented, though at the price of his safety as seen in court and cried.

"You know nothing of my sentiments sir if you wish to know (to the Judge) I will give them to you signed with my name and sealed with my seal. How dare you arraign a good citizen of the United States before this mob tribunal? I call this treason! I call you a traitor! And if I had the power I would hang you on the public gallows."

The court took a speedy way of getting rid of this old trooper, and he was permitted to go home. But there was Stonewall Jackson plundering his house there, the young men whom he had helped to christen and taught to shoot the rifle taunting their treason. Old Colonel Strother laid down in shame and died. His daughter put his body in a hearse and followed it alone, with a single carriage across the mountains to Martinsburg, where she buried him with his fathers.

Meantime, Porte Crayon was in the Union lines Aide-de-Camp to McClellan to Banks, to Hunter. He guided the army of the Union to Antietam. His services cover all the Atlantic and Gulf slope from Lake Pontchartrain to the Susquehanna. After the war he was Secretary to Governor Pierpont of Virginia. Then he came to the village of Bath to rest and pursue in pleasant competence his studies and drawings.

It was there that I found him, happier than he has ever been, but done with active life. The hotel is still intact and hospitably kept by Porte Crayon's brother in law. It is still the favorite resort for New Orleans, Baltimore and Washington people and many Northern men are building cottages there.

VIRGINIA SCENES.

I found Porte Crayon in his library. It is early oil paintings surrounding the room. All scattered among his books were sketches of the John Brown raid, the most valuable reminiscences extant of that border warfare. His library is perhaps the most perfect in Virginia, in its colonial and local State collections. He is the most conscientious designer in the country not so exquisite perhaps as Darley but Darley long ago resigned individualism for commerce and he has made a fortune. Porte Crayon sharper and better sketches have never been published. They are stamped with native character. The Mountaineer over the Chesapeake shipper the negro patriarch imbued with human suggestion from the years to the hands and never exaggerated often humorous and always involving some natural or domestic sentiment. When I had opportunity I asked Strother the state of feeling in Virginia.

"Sullenness and ruin," he said. "The old vices of pride and idleness that John Smith witnessed of the earliest Virginians exist to the high the whole community suggested. I have never seen poverty. Don't Deny the "Time-Honored Principles

Two days ago the Herald devoted a long article to proving that during the rebellion its party did not adopt any platform which affirmed the doctrine of secession We never charged that any platform specifically affirming the doctrine of secession was adopted by the Northern section of that party, but we did charge and now repeat that all its platforms during the war denied the right of coercion and that this position was exactly tantamount to an affirmance of the doctrine of secession

The question we asked the other day "Where was the Democratic platform adopted during the war, which characterized secession as a "heresy?" remains unanswered The editor of the Herald has been groping through the musty records of party resolutions and platforms, but he has not yet produced the platform called for He produces what purports to be a couple of resolutions voted for by the Democratic members of the Legislatures of Pennsylvania and Illinois in 1861 in which secession is called a heresy but in these resolutions the war for the preservation of the Union is equally denounced with secession itself This was the Democratic style during the rebellion. If anything was said which implied any censure of the acts of the rebels, it was coupled with severer denunciations of the Administration for endeavoring to maintain the national authority Democrats sometimes resolved that they would "unqualifiedly support every constitutional measure to preserve the union of the States, but they uniformly held that war was not a "constitutional measure" The following from Nasby is an exact exposition of their creed "Ef Boregard fires onto Major Anderson," said he, "let Major Anderson go afore the nearest Justice uv the Peece and hev him bound over to keep the peece Ef he wont keep the peece, and the Justice can't enforce his order, why that ends it We can't go beyond the Constooshen" This was their method of "supporting every constitutional measure to preserve the union of the States

The rebels seceded in conformity with Democratic principles They went out under the Resolutions of '98. Buchanan declared that the Union was divided and that it was unconstitutional to attempt to restore it by force of arms the only way whereby it could be restored. On this theory the Democratic party kept up a continuous resistance to the war policy of the Government Though not openly affirming the doctrine, they recognized the fact of secession, and held that the Government had no right to resort to force to reduce the rebels to submission Was this position any better or more creditable, than a direct affirmation of the doctrine of secession would have been?

Prophetic Declaration.

The inscription on the Benton statue recently erected at St Louis is, "There is the East There is India" These words were employed in a speech delivered by Benton at St. Louis, 1849, at a Pacific Railroad meeting The excitement about the California gold mines was then in its highest flush, the immense rush over the plains and around the Cape was in progress, and there were those who foresaw that a railroad might be built from St. Louis to "San Francisco Bay But that people laughed at the idea as absurd. Benton, however, was a believer in the gigantic scheme. He thought it was not beyond the skill and enterprise of the American people to compass the undertaking and in the speech referred to he gave utterance to his convictions and expressed his hopes with his usual energy, positiveness and confidence Alluding to the time when this great project should be realized in the completion of a railroad [illegible] ing the extremes of the continent he said:

> Its crowning honor shall be the colossal statue of the [illegible] Columbus, whose design it accomplished, hewn from the granite mass of a peak of the Rocky Mountains, overlooking the road—the statue itself a pedestal and the statue a part of the mountain, pointing with outstretched arm to the eastern horizon, and saying to the flying passenger "There is the East! there is India!"

What Benton with prophetic vision foresaw will now be seen as an accomplished fact How great are the wonders and achievements of twenty years!

Seymour's Duplicity

Horatio Seymour's speech at the Cooper Institute, a few days before the meeting of the New York Convention, was considered by the New York Herald as a strong argument for Chase against Pendleton, and was consequently lauded as "the speech of a student, a philosopher and a statesman—very long and very strong." No wonder the Herald was disgusted and flew the nominations when it discovered that Seymour had only been using Chase as a stalking horse Outside of the corrupt ring who engineered the thing for Seymour, it seems as though nobody in the United States had the slightest idea of his nomination The Eastern papers of the last week in June do not mention him Chase Hendricks, Hancock and Pendleton are talked of, but not one word is said of Seymour How completely the Herald was deceived, may be seen from the estimate of his speech:

> This whole argument, we say, is dead set against Pendleton, and a powerful appeal in behalf of Chase for the Democratic nomination To be sure, Mr Seymour mentions the name of neither Chase nor Pendleton, but still the argument practically amounts to an earnest protest against Pendleton, and a masterly exposition of what may be reasonably expected from Chase as our next President In a Democratic consultation at Albany the other day, Mr Seymour earnestly contended that Chase was the man for the Democracy at this crisis In this magnanimous abnegation of his own high claims, Mr Seymour commands our highest respect. He stoke the politician in the patriot and statesman Having first declared himself out of the field, he was properly qualified to name his Presidential favorite and in naming Mr Chase for the Democracy Mr Seymour hit upon the very man This was at Albany It he said nothing directly by name in behalf of Chase a the Cooper Institute it was because after what he had said at Albany the drift of his argument would be understood without mentioning names We are gratified, therefore, to add in circulating the great speech of our distinguished expounder of New York Democracy in behalf of the Chief Justice for the Democratic nomination

The gap to be covered in the Pacific Railroad is now about 826 miles in length The Central Pacific is completed for a distance of 201 miles from Sacramento, and the track is now being extended at the rate of two or three miles a day

The Oregon and Idaho Telegraph

We [illegible] published a week ago that Lewiston, extract from a letter received in this city a few days since would indicate, that Hope City under a lot of July 11th and says it refers to a subject in which all of our people should feel an interest we despatch it in a careful perusal

It does seem to me that the people of Portland are treating in a [illegible] the trade they are letting slip through their fingers They once only get the entire trade of Southern Idaho but it wants enterprise and the day a little capital will be and have its investment at least pay a small dividend they have already formed a line from Portland to [illegible] Francisco and in a word at the Central Pacific railroad will be completed to within two hundred or two hundred and fifty miles of us by the setting in of winter and if our people should become tired of waiting and subscribe to the Western Union Telegraph Company as they have with the Portland line and thus put us in telegraphic communication with San Francisco and the Atlantic States, is there a man in business in the city of Portland that does not know that the entire trade of this section will pass out of their hands and into those of merchants of San Francisco Dear Sirs, the newspapers inform us that Gen Dodge Chief Engineer of the Union Pacific will pass through this country to the Columbia for the purpose of making a preliminary survey for the Snake river valley railroad Now, I ask any thinking man what will be his opinion of the energy of the people, of their enterprise and ability as financiers when he has passed over the route and found not a rod of telegraph line Besides, the telegraph will pay Not a dollar as yet has been subscribed by farmers, very few dollars by federal officials and some of the merchants have not subscribed anything all of whom will have more or less telegraphing to do I believe Idaho is the only organized territory in the United States that has not one foot of telegraph line within its border, excepting a small portion of the Salt Lake and Montana line, through a very sparsely settled portion of the extreme east section of the territory situate between the great and growing State of Oregon on the direct route from the second commercial city on the Pacific to the Atlantic, with a conformation of country that would naturally draw our trade towards you, a trade now worth a million and destined to be worth many millions, and yet you are permitting it year by year to pass into other and unnatural channels, simply because the business men of other sections possess more energy, industry perseverance and sagacity in the investment of capital, to put them selves into speedy communication with us It may be asked if this project is so important, why do not the people of Idaho build it I simply answer, that like all people that go to a new country and build it up and make it worth something we are poor You have passed that day You have a fine commercial city, besides many lesser ones of no mean pretensions. Magnificent rivers navigable for great ocean steamers, an immense amount of agricultural lands under successful and profitable tillage, great herds of cattle and large dairy interests, your annual yield of sheep, hogs and horses, rivaling with even older States your manufactures of wool, iron, &c., are growing to no mean importance Therefore, permit me to say here, that from your and our geographical positions, you should supply every piece of the immense amount of machinery now used and to be used in working the untold number of quartz ledges in Alturas, Ada, Boise, Owyhee and Oneida counties, in this Territory, as well as for the entire northern portions of the Territory Now why do you not do it? You have the iron ore and the coal to manufacture it with. Is it not a part and parcel of that indolent supineness that now seems to possess your business men in the completion of this telegraph. As I said, we are poor and unable to build a telegraph line. Not so with you You are rich, rich indeed in resources, if indeed your people do not sit down and permit less favored places to usurp yur trade and traffic. Does any one suppose that Chicago would have been the Queen city of the West in trade, if her merchants and property holders had sat idly down and wasted for interior towns and villages to build telegraphs and railroads for and to them? Surely not Well do I remember how her merchants, shippers and property holders exerted every nerve to build her first western railroad—the "Galena and Chicago Union" Well do I remember how liberally they subscribed and are still subscribing for stock in telegraphs (the forerunner of railroads) and railroads, steamer lines, etc, to all parts and points, and what is the result? She not only drains the country that naturally should flow to her, but receives millions of dollars of the trade that should naturally go to Milwaukie and St Louis, and even stops much that would go to New York and other Eastern cities. Do the people of Portland propose to sit down and let San Francisco do for them what Chicago has done for the great Northwest? Is the trade of the Willamette and Columbia, I mean such as can float to and from them, sufficient to satisfy their ambition? If so, all they have to do is to sit still a few months longer, and they will not be troubled with enough trade to disturb their equitable balance

Grant and Seymour Contrasted.

The Reese River (Nev) Reveille illustrates in the following manner the propriety of putting up Seymour to head the opposition against Grant—depicting the respective parts enacted by the two men on the Fourth of July, 1863

> If the painter could correctly transfer to canvass the scenes and acts of Horatio Seymour and his friends, and of U S Grant and his friends, on the 4th of July, A D. 1863, what a contrast would be presented to the wondering gaze of the beholder On one side would be presented the streets of the metropolis of the nation, filled with an angry, murdering mob, with here and there a sick and disabled Federal soldier hung up to a lamp post—and unoffending negroes shot down on account of their color—priests clothed in the sacred garb of their calling, imploring the rioters to stop their bloody and inhuman work but with out effect but at length the tall and commanding form of their Chief Executive appears He opens his mouth and addresses the mob Hear him—"My friends, I advise you to stop now You have shown your courage by hanging to lamp posts some sick and disabled Federal soldiers, and you have shot down some negroes Should you continue much longer, Gen Meade might detach a brigade of soldiers of the regular army, and they might hurt some of you Go to your homes, my friends, and all will be well Remember you have a firm friend in the Chief Executive of your State." After the demonstrations of applause, following these honeyed words, had died away, these active, demonstrative friends of the Governour slowly retire, carrying with them the admiration for the man which comes to the surface in 1868 On the other side would be the long lines of entrenchments that fortified Vicksburg, and the Federal army with General U S Grant in command The soldiers drawn up in line, with battle flags fluttering in the breeze, and the besieged army of Pemberton, to the number of twenty-six thousand, with drooped colors and trailing arms slowly, but to the tune of Yankee Doodle, marching out and stacking arms and receiving their parol Another field would be presented also—the battle ground of Gettysburg, with the close contest of Cemetery Hill in the foreground and the retreat of Lee's forces toward Blue Ridge leaving General Meade in possession of the ground Thus making New York and Philadelphia secure from the raiding and pillaging attacks of the army of the rebellion All these acts occurring at the same time, Seymour's Democratic friends were rioting in the streets of New York in opposition to the draft, and in direct aid of the rebels whom General Grant was forcing forth to a surrender at Vicksburg, and General Meade was driving from the doors of Philadelphia and New York Yes, let Seymour be pitted against Grant

The San Francisco Times observes that so far as Chase is concerned the Herald's wish no doubt got the better of its judgment and the sequel has proved that it was not Chase but an individual that "modesty forbade him to mention" that Seymour was hunting at But the speech was a protest against Pendleton's financial theories, and was universally so regarded at the East And yet in a little more than a week afterward Seymour accepted a nomination upon a platform on both issues, the worst of those same theories

The Mississippi Citizen, a Democratic newspaper in its obituaries over a public meeting lately held at Perry, at which a freedman spoke against the Radical policy The oratory of these colored men, who had all been field hands and were wholly illiterate is lauded to the skies, and its effect is said to have been startling "On the whole, says the Citizen, we have had a happy Democratic day and many have been led from darkness to light Negro suffrage is rapidly making its way in the South It makes all the difference in the world which ticket the negro votes

SPIRIT OF THE REBEL DEMOCRACY WHOLESALE MURDERING IN MARSHALL COUNTY

[Correspondence of the Cincinnati Gazette]

NASHVILLE June 20

The colored citizens of Marshall county Tenn, a county not fifty miles distant from the Capital of the State—have been the victims for months past of the most shocking brutalities A large number of the white citizens of the county banded together in an [illegible] Klans travel about the country at night on horseback visit the cabins of the negroes drag them from their beds, strip them, tie and whip them often in such a brutal manner that they are obliged to keep their beds for days together I have it from a colored man whom I personally know a man of the strictest veracity a man who served his country well during the late war as a soldier, that not less than fifty colored persons within the circle of his own acquaintance have been whipped by the Kuklux within a few weeks past This man's own brother was whipped a week or two since and he has been obliged to hide himself in the woods at night to escape the like punishment The Kuklux declare that they intend to whip Radicalism out of the negroes But they are not content simply with the luxury of whipping them They take a devilish pleasure in tormenting them in abusing and insulting their wives and daughters In some instances they have stripped men and women naked and committed outrages upon them which cannot be named in a newspaper

These poor, outraged people to my certain knowledge have sent a message to Nashville to plead for protection but from causes which are discreditable to both the National and the State Government nothing has ever been done for them

Last Monday evening a band of twenty mounted Kuklux rode out of Chapel Hill to engage in their usual recreation They had given out that they meant to whip a colored teacher from Nashville, named Garrett but failing to find him, they went to the cabin of an old colored man who was sick at the time dragged him out of his bed stripped him naked, tied him, took him some distance from his home, and decided to give him five lashes apiece—in all a hundred lashes The pleasure to the fiends was so great that each one of the gang wished to share it They then began their infernal work At every blow the old man groaned out, "Oh! Oh!" This was too much, and a company of eight colored men who had been unobserved spectators of the scene, fired upon the Kuklux, and they fled in every direction, leaving several of their masks.

This would have ended the matter had there been any honor or trust in the white citizens of Chapel Hill But these qualities were wanting, and on the next day the whole country about was in a war fever The guilty negroes must be hunted down They have fired upon the innocent Kuklux! They have at last resisted wholesome chastisement! The whole community was under arms and the country was scoured for the negroes For protection a company of about thirty colored men procured such arms as they could, and with only about two rounds of shot apiece, they stood all day Tuesday on the defensive On Wednesday Esquire Williams sent a messenger to the colored boys that if they would come into town and give up their arms the civil authorities would protect them, and peace and quiet should be restored The proposition was accepted and no wonder, for these poor colored men had wives and children in the neighborhood and their prayers and threats all was there But while marching to Chapel Hill they were attacked, fired upon, and driven to the woods by the whites There is no doubt but that Squire Williams' proposition was made with a view to get the negroes into town in order that they might be massacred

As the whole country was full of armed gangs of white men the colored determined to come in a body to Nashville, and they kept together, holding their enemies at bay until they got out of danger and encamped on the Stone river battle-ground, near Murfreesboro Here they rested, but new troubles were prepared for them An absurd story was circulated that the negroes had risen and were marching on Murfreesboro The Democrats fools flew to arms The Sheriff of the county took out to the grounds where the poor fugitives were resting themselves, and told them that five hundred men were under arms in town and that to prevent trouble they had better give up their arms, divide into small squads, and in that way come on to Nashville The Sheriff assured them that if they complied with his suggestion they should be allowed to proceed unmolested They did as he desired, and then commenced a chase by the humane and high minded authorities and citizens of Murfreesboro the Sheriff it is believed at the head of them, for the capture of these unarmed men They were pursued for miles, chased through field and wood, fired upon, and quite a number were captured A small part of the band reached Nashville on Friday morning

General Carlin, of the Freedmen's Bureau has made an energetic representation of the case to General Thomas and to Governor Brownlow Whether anything will be done to relieve the sufferings of these abused citizens no one can tell Their condition is most pitiable The case is one for the whole people to look into and the case in question in Marshall county This case in league with the Kuklux Klans The Democratic party in this State is in league with these infernal Klans It would be a case matter for the magistrates of Marshall county to detect and punish the scoundrels if they did not sanction their outrages What is to be done? Are the poor black people to be left by the State and Federal Governments to perish at the hands of these Democratic devils? Meanwhile the poor fugitives from Marshall some of them barefooted go about the city begging for work and mourning for the loss of all their possessions Is there no justice in the land?

Cleared July 22—Steamer Guiding Star for Portland She will sail to morrow

FROM THE NORTH

VICTORIA, July 21—The steamer Otter, from the north arrived here yesterday On her way down she touched at Shadwell Passage, the scene of the wreck of the Sunenose, where she took on board a portion of the latter's stores and brought them to this port

The news received last evening from Carriboo reports everything in a very flourishing condition—nearly all the claims paying well and prospects are very encouraging

COTTON THAN AN INCHBUG.—The Democratic paper at Sacramento says The fact that Blair was presented for the Vice Presidency by the recommendation of the soldiers and sailors who had fought in the war, and that such as Wade Hampton and others of the South joined in the recommendation is proof of his conservatism and devotion to the country and the Constitution." To this the Bee responds

The fact that the men who were lately in arms to overthrow the Constitution and destroy the Government presented Blair as a candidate is proof that he is devoted to the country and the Constitution! The fact that Satan and his imps recommend a pastor to a congregation is proof that he is devoted to religion! The Bee never did not say that but it may [illegible] just as well have done so as to make the remark that we have quoted

The Sacramento Union observes that the man has not yet appeared who can lift himself over a fence by his own waistband Among the twelve labors of Hercules this was not included It it had been proposed, we think that a man of Lee, after a little reflection would have respectfully declined it But the Democratic party insists on it as a feat quite easily absolved It [illegible] that we shall impress on our credit by having it borne money cheaper by taking back part of the interest It would be delightful indeed if we could discover some way of making debts pay themselves

The New York World, the leading Democratic organ says It seems to us both a more practicable and more useful enterprise to reform the white vote than to abolish negro suffrage We fear the World is getting into deep water than the party can fathom There is not one Democratic voter in a hundred who understands the [illegible] question

THE SALEM FLOUR MILL.—When the Salem Building mill was erected it was intended to make it the first mill of the State to grind flour by the process of the Hungarian system of manufacture, which is the method in use in all the first class mills of the country. It did not, however, do as well as was expected, and for some time has been idle. Early in the last year Mr. Ladd came to the conclusion that it would be wisely determined to change the system of manufacture and get him to work in accordance with the new system. Accordingly employed Mr. Ira A. Woodward, a first class miller and millwright, of California, to put in the new machinery, and superintend the mill was entirely remodeled. Mr. Griffith, of the Oregonian, said: I showed me over the building and the machinery, and I went through the mill. He was highly pleased with the information he received from Mr. Woodward, some notes descriptive of the mill as it now is. I will do and what remains to be done of with the following brief synopsis. The machinery is all carried by one of Byrnes & Leffel's largest wheels, which stands in a fall fourteen feet and a half feet head, possesses 75 inch shaft runs to the top of the building and is used to the machinery above such as belts, elevators, cleaners, etc. The burrs five in number are placed in a circle around the shaft and are all driven by it. They are so arranged that the miller can stand in the burr frame and start or stop any part of the machinery or either of the burrs. Four of the burrs are used for grinding wheat and the fifth for regrinding middlings. There is used for cleaning grain two of the Woodward patent grist machines and two zig zags. There are also built six chests for the purpose of making XX flour and one with four reels for making Salem XX flour. The ware house connected with the mill is divided into six large bins, each capable of holding twenty thousand bushels. The wheat is emptied from the wagon into a large weigh hopper where it is weighed and then run through a trap to a large bin. From that bin it is elevated and cleaned through a powerful suction fan and shaken and in the elevated it is put at rest and emptied into a conveyer which runs the entire length of the warehouse. Speaking from memory, but I believe there is an another conveyer running inside the warehouse with spouts to each bin. The miller can then draw off grain from either bin separately or from any number of them to suit the grist he wants to make. The wheat is taken from the cars to the warehouse and carried up in the top of the mill and deposited in a large bin from which it goes to the cleaning works. It is thoroughly cleansed and is ready for grinding. The mill usually makes about 250 bbls of flour per day, but it has the capacity to make 500 bbls or more per day. It is so constructed that three grades of flour can be made at the same time, but only two grades are usually made. XXX Salem and XX Salem. The XXX flour is considered equal to any brand in the coast or perhaps any where else.

OREGON BRANCH OF UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD.—A few days since the papers published a report that Gen. Dodge the Chief Engineer of the Union Pacific Railroad would start in a few days for Cheyenne, to make an exploratory survey for a branch road to Portland. The Rose Democrat of the 8th inst. said:

The prospects for a railroad to Salt Lake to Portland are brightening as will be seen from the following which we take from the Salt Lake Telegraph of the 4th instant: The Cheyenne Argus says General Dodge is to come west in a few days with a company of the cavalry, to survey a railroad route for the branch Portland Oregon.

This was a little too much on the order of second and third hand dramatic. Though it carried a good deal of a moment and raised a few people a railroad in a good many degrees. To ascertain if there was really any truth in the report, a dispatch was sent from the city a couple of days since to Salt Lake inquiring as to the facts in the case. To this a dispatch dated Salt Lake City July 22d was received here yesterday as follows:

"Think General Dodge does not intend any immediate exploration toward the Columbia river at present as he leave in a day or two for Cheyenne to meet Durant. Am not informed what his intentions are after that."

CALIFORNIA STATE FAIR.—We have received from J. N. Hong, Secretary of the Board of Directors of the California State Agricultural Society a complimentary season ticket, accompanied by a circular from which we take the following extract: "The prospects for a good exhibition of all our industrial products are excellent. We will forward you a package of the revised premium list in a few days as also copies of the transactions" of the Society for 1866 and 1867. Any assistance you can render the Society by urging an exhibition of the evidences of [illegible] ability in your locality will be a service to your State, and will be gratefully remembered by the Board."

OREGON AND IDAHO TELEGRAPH.—We publish this morning a portion of a letter from Idaho concern ng the [illegible] telegraph from Portland to Boise and points beyond. It sets the matter in a very fair light before the [illegible] and though it talks a little severely of the enterprise of our people, it speaks the truth and can do no harm. The indisposition of our people to help them [illegible] in business matters is a standing marvel to outsiders. We know of no better method of rousing them to action than to talk straight at them. The truth though it may be rough and jagged and may draw blood.

STATE FOX.—The dispatches from San Francisco announce an alarming increase of small pox cases in that city. The disease will doubtless be brought here very soon, by the steamers, and we suggest that measures be taken beforehand to guard against its spread. When the steamers arrive it would be well for our people to know who they have on board any cases of the disease and to act with due caution about exposing themselves to infection.

LAD BROKEN BY A BELT.—On Wednesday afternoon a boy named Roberts, while at work in the Oregon City Woolen Mills attempted to throw off a belt from a pulley by kicking it with his foot. In doing so he got his foot caught between the belt and pulley and had his leg broken in two places. It was not long since the same boy had the ends of the fingers of his right hand cut off by a part of the machinery.

YOUNG AMERICA ON THE RAMPAGE.—An evening or two since a boy of about a dozen years, became angry at a man and drawing a knife swore he would cut him open. The man in a cool way convinced Young America that he was getting on rather too fast. There are about a score or two of boys of twelve to fifteen years, in this city who frequently if not habitually carry arms, to "defend themselves." The police would do well to make a few examples of them.

THE SUBMARINE STEAMER.—The steamer Katie, Capt. Ingram, will leave at 6 o'clock this morning to commence the work of surveying the channel of the Columbia bar. We were in error in saying she was built at Mare Island. She was built at Rincon Point. She is a staunch looking boat, somewhat smaller than the Rescue built mostly of Oregon and Oregon timber. We notice that much of her machinery is fir. She has been here obtaining some repairs to her machinery.

CHOLERA.—REPORT.—A report was in circulation yesterday afternoon that a case of cholera had occurred in this city, resulting fatally. The report could not be traced to any reliable source and was without doubt altogether groundless. Summer complaints are prevailing pretty generally and some severe cases has probably been exaggerated into a case of cholera. No good can come of circulating such alarming rumors.

FOR VICTORIA.—The following is a list of the treasure shipped to San Francisco on board the steamship John L. Stephens, which sailed Wednesday evening:

Wells, Fargo & Co—	$55 000
Ladd & Tilton	12 000
J W Seth Bros	5,000
In private hands.	75 000
Total	$147 000

CONTESTED ELECTION IN CLACKAMAS COUNTY.—The contested election cases at Oregon City are still dragging their slow length along. A great number of witnesses have been examined. It is reported that the testimony is now, however, all in, that the attorneys will file briefs on Monday next, and that Judge Upton will decide the case as soon as he has time to go over the arguments and authorities.

IMPROVEMENT OF ALDER STREET.—The work of laying down the Nicolson pavement on Alder street between Front and First was completed yesterday and the street was opened to public use. The contractor and the foreman under whose immediate direction the work was done, are entitled to credit for having done a good job. There is no handsomer nor a better piece of street pavement, in the city.

INFORMATION WANTED.—We call attention to the advertisement headed "Information Wanted" from Boise River, after losing all his money by fire at East Portland in September 1865, shortly started for Idaho. He owned mining interests in several silver mines. He has not been heard from since he left this city. The papers of Idaho would confer a favor by giving publicity to the inquiry.

THE INDECENT EXPOSURE CASES.—The boys arrested on Wednesday for indecent exposure of their persons received a well timed lecture from the Recorder yesterday morning, and were let off. They are probably by this time able to see the folly of it, and we doubt if they will repeat the offence.

OREGON PRODUCTS.—The following were the receipts Saturday 800 quarters wheat 200 sacks middlings 67 bales wool, 50 bbl bbls dried apples 18 bales and 1 cases woolen 5 sks, 11 cases tinned oil 8 bales broken flax 1 horse rake, 13 boxes cheese and 1 bale furs.

A WATER MAIN.—The Portland Water Co. has begun the work of laying down a new water main from Morrison street down Fourth to Oak. The Morrison street main which it taps is supplied directly from one of the mountain streams to the west of the city.

A REDUCTION IN PRICE.—Wells Fargo & Co are now selling their franked envelopes at $6 50 per hundred instead of $10 as heretofore. This is a material reduction and one at which the people will certainly not grumble.

SICKNESS.—Frequent cases of cholera morbus and kindred complaints, are occurring. People cannot exercise too much caution about eating drinking and exercise during the prevalence of this hot weather.

BEEF CATTLE.—The Okanagan yesterday morning took on board a number of fat cattle for the Victoria market via Monticello and Olympia.

TO LOAD.—The bark Almatea was yesterday towed down the river by the steamer Okanagan. She is to load with lumber at Westport.

CIRCUIT COURT.—Judge Upton did not get through at Oregon City in time to reopen court there yesterday but will resume business to day.

ARREST.—The schooner Grisly was taken in tow for Astoria by the Okanagan yesterday morning.

THE NEXT STEAMER.—The steamer Continental will sail from San Francisco for Portland to-day.

WILL NOT HUNT.—The San Francisco Call like several other Democratic papers refuses to hunt the New York nomination. Quoting from Senator Conkling's speech it says:

His only fault is that he is a Democrat. Yes but Senator, not such a Democrat as we were, and we trust are a Union Democrat. A South-side Democrat said to us today, while in conversation in reference to our remarks on the nomination in yesterday's paper that 'Seymour was a good Democrat.' Yes," we replied and would have been a republican had he lived to the present. He answered Yes and so would I if I hadn't an office." Well' we said 'that is not in Democracy. Does Mr Conkling wish to be understood as saying, that in his Democracy. We hope not.

REVISED LAWS OF LEWIS AND CLARK.—The Omaha Republican relates that it has seen a great curiosity in the shape of an ounce bullet firmly imbedded in a piece of wood cut out of a rock elm tree in the timber near Florence a few days ago. The curiosity of the thing was that the wood of the tree had grown together two layers over the bullet after it had been imbedded in its trunk the tree had been dead at least ten years the bullet must have been put there as long ago as a time back when the first grand explorers traversed our continent from east to west.

Some of the Democratic papers are going into extacies over the Life of Jefferson Davis published recently.

WILLIAM KOEHLER,
DENTIST.
OFFICE—Southwest corner Front and Yamhill Streets, opposite R J Northrup & Co's Hardware Store.
I am now making amongst numerous other styles of ARTIFICIAL TEETH the improved Vulcanite Plates of Dr G W Cook's Patent patented Dec 3, 1867, the improvement of which consists in fixing the entire contact surface with fine gold. It not only makes the plate double as strong and clear lighter than the common Vulcanite Plate. It also can by it be made considerably thinner and lighter whereas the price is but little above that for common plates. Call and see specimens.
N B.—Dentists wishing to secure the office right for Dr G W Cook's Improved Vulcanite Plates can have it made out to them by applying to this office.
N B.—The attendance I would say that is constantly increasing. Dental Practice for the last five years in this city will be a sufficient guarantee for them to receive a First Class and Finished Piece of Work. Numerous testimonials to the same can be given at the office.

Nations as Debtors

Within [illegible] years the credit of the United States in the great European markets was lower than that of any other borrowing government. In 1865 [illegible] our stocks [illegible] were sold in London at 30, showing that the United States were required to pay [illegible] the use of money more than four times as much of interest demanded from France, more than two times that paid by Great Britain—nay, that the credit of Italy was [illegible] that India or the dependencies of the British Crown could obtain loans at half the price and even the bonds of Spain were worth more than ours.

Not that any one seriously believed the nations to be [illegible] than the United States or that their resources were likely to more rapidly grow far beyond the demands of their indebtedness. But a feeling prevailed widely of distrust towards a government of the people. The notion that a government is something antagonistic in interest to the nation at large, that the security for a public debt is to be found in the power of rulers to force subjects to pay, and that tax payers will inevitably refuse to furnish the means unless compelled, seems to be one which has cannot burn out of the men who live under monarchies. The conception of a people volunteering to assume a debt every one of them identifying its obligation with personal honor and all cheerfully imposing on themselves the burden of sustaining it, has not, or in 1865 had not, entered the European mind. But the debts of the old royalties of Europe were sacred things, for is not a King's word pledged for each of them? Does not each of them rest upon the honor of a throne, with centuries of glory behind it? Does not the very savor of the divine annointed extend to all the obligations assumed by the old historic houses of Hapsburg and Bourbon?

[illegible] changes have come rapidly, though silently. Every year has added largely to the number of those in Europe who have no bounded confidence in America and who look upon our debt as the safest investment in the world. Had no more bonds been sent out since the war closed the credit of the United States would be as high in the markets of the Old World as that of any nation. But we have lived most extravagantly, and have borrowed of Europe the means to support our style and our waste. We have kept the foreign [illegible] supplied with our bonds, at [illegible] their own terms, until a large proportion of our whole funded debt, perhaps one-third of it, is held there. Yet in spite of this, the demand has grown faster than the supply; and now, at seventy five they have put me a favorite loan in which temporary [illegible] are made productive among the [illegible] who refused to deal in them at all [illegible] half this price.

On the other hand, three of the great monarchies of Europe have just given examples on a large scale of the unhappiness of him who trusts in princes. Austria has laid a tax of sixteen per cent on the coupons of her own bonds, to be withheld by the Treasury upon payment, thus reducing the interest upon her five per cents to less than four and a quarter cents. The plea made for this is that Hungary, under her new constitution, refuses to assume her full share of the public burdens; and that it is not reasonable that the rest of the empire represented in the Reichsrath shall make up her deficiency. But the real excuse is the inconvenience, amounting almost to impossibility, of sustaining, with the present very imperfect financial system of Austria, the heavy taxation which perfect good faith would require.

Prussia, following the example of Austria, is [illegible] busily engaged in laying a tax upon the income received from her public debt. Some of the ministers oppose the application of this tax to foreigners, but there is no possibility of discriminating between foreign and domestic holders without giving opportunities for [illegible] frauds. The representatives of the people have submitted, with some show of [illegible] to the great tax of the government, and the tax [illegible] per cent is computed as interest; while they go to still [illegible] of [illegible] in laying upon the next series of his. The [illegible] head here of Russia [illegible] the constant state of the revenue service. Every [illegible] is looked on as a thief, by virtue of his office, and the government admits that just a fraction of the duties levied by law ever reaches the treasury.

But the most startling act of [illegible] in modern times is that just [illegible] by Spain. It is a novel and original method of [illegible], and shows more ingenuity of [illegible] than we commonly expect from that [illegible] government. Some weeks ago Spain made a contract with the old banking house of Goldschmidt to introduce through them a new loan upon the London market, to be secured upon the revenues of Cuba and [illegible] colonies, with the added guarantee of the home government at Madrid. While the [illegible] was giving subscriptions and partial payments in advance, they deposited half a million of dollars in the Spanish treasury, as a [illegible] that they would account in good faith for the proceeds of the loan. But the Ministry, when the project came before the Cortez, were opposed so vigorously that they did not dare even to propose the guarantee they had promised. They failed in their engagement, and Mr. Goldschmidt and their associates were compelled to abandon the negotiation, and to return to subscribers the payments received. Upon notice was given by the Spanish government that the deposit in question would be forfeited to the Queen.

The [illegible] plausible excuses for the act [illegible] Italy; while that of Spain is [illegible] like highway robbery. But the [illegible] to the creditors of a State in [illegible], whether the government is [illegible] pay them, or wilfully confiscates [illegible] on the part of great European [illegible] without serious influence on [illegible]. The character of national [illegible] failed, for a [illegible] time suffer. The credit of popular governments for all high qualities must be essentially raised by the superior patience and the more scrupulous [illegible] of honor it has shown under financial embarrassments. Perhaps, in the course of a few more years, by a rigorous adherence to the low [illegible] principles which seem now to be [illegible] with both parties here, the condition of the markets of the world in 1864 may be so far reversed that the debt of the United States shall be the favorite security of European capitalists.

Another change, only as great proportionally as has actually taken place within four years, would enable us to borrow at a rate of interest as low as England now pays upon her consols, and would reduce the annual charge upon our debt to one half our revenue from customs alone.

THE BREAST AS A PINCUSHION.—The London Medical Gazette says:

Mr Record during a recent discussion on the penetration of foreign bodies related the following anecdote. The celebrated actress, Madeline Brohan, suffered from a tumor of the breast, which puzzled her various doctors as to its nature. The diagnosis wavered between an adenoid tumor and one of a scirrhous nature, but, before consenting to an operation she consulted Ricord. He examined the breast with the most scrupulous care, and presently felt certain that a needle lodged in the substance of the organ was the source of the mischief; for during the examination, he felt the end of his finger pricked by the foreign body. To force the needle to project outwardly, and then to extract it was the work of an instant. Great was the amazement of the patient, who had no idea how the accident had happened and the clever operator, on leaving cautioned her in future not to place her needles on such a pincushion. The tumor rapidly disappeared.

IRISH VIEWS OF DEMOCRACY.—The Irish Republic draws the following vivid picture of the existing Democratic party:

Who compose this miscalled Democratic party that has kept the nation in the throes of dissolution since the close of the war? There is not a man in the land who raised his sword to strike down liberty that is not arrayed in its ranks! There is not a man who secretly prayed and plotted for the success of the rebellion that is not a member of it! There is not a ruffian who roamed the cities of the North when treason lifted its coward hand to stab the nation in the back—howling like a savage for blood and murdering all who by their color or exalted principles excited his barbarian ferocity, but is a member of the party.

TAYLOR'S AMERICAN DOUBLE TURBINE WATER WHEEL

[illegible] Flouring Mills, Saw Mills, Planing Machinery, Grist Mills, Flour Mills, Quartz Mills, Woolen Factories, &c., &c.

CAUTION.

To all whom it may concern: I hereby give notice that the so-called "Shipley's Pacific Turbine Water Wheel" is a direct infringement and copy of the James Leffel & Co.'s Double Turbine Water Wheel, and its manufacture and use is hereby prohibited. Any person or persons making, using, constructing or vending said Water Wheels, make themselves liable to heavy damages and penalties. Parties interested will take notice, for I shall prosecute said infringements to the utmost extent of the law.

That all may know I mean what I say, and am not playing "bluff," I give the following extract from a legal opinion on this subject from one of the most eminent Patent Attorneys in the United States:

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 17, 1868.

"MR. A. MYERS—In accordance with your request we have examined the patents of Shipley on Water Wheels, and are clearly of the opinion that they both infringe the Leffel's patents. In both of Shipley's Wheels he uses the upper and lower tiers of buckets precisely as Leffel does and in this is clearly infringes. The fact that Shipley has applied another series of buckets in addition so those used by Leffel, does not relieve him from the consequences of infringement at all. He has no right to use those two tiers of buckets, or their alone or with a third or any other number of tiers added. It is a clear infringement. Respectfully yours,

DODGE & MUNN

I hereby give notice that I will prosecute every infringement on my Patents, whether it is the maker, user, buyer or seller. Every infringement whether smaller alone are used in whole or in part, will be prosecuted.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr Gibbon's Dispensary,

616 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco, Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc., Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female are there who are suffering from the effects of secret indulgences or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies and see that they are cured for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made a private disease his especial study for years and who is certain to cure the most involved case without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from European and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.
